Do the 'Cup started at 2pm sharp and finished around 8.30pm. The players on the development ladder all start playing on weekdays at 6.30pm. Everyone wants to play in the Ladder Cup. Just last week a solo player starting with 83 points after the first round went on to win the final, held at the ETAS headquarters, against Brian Bunn (113) and Roy Dempster (122). The ladder continues through the Department of Education, Social Services and Local Government and finally ends with the State Government which has all the elite clubs. What do you need to play in the Ladder Cup? Club: Four regional league clubs in an eight week season Five players who are not in clubs in the ladder system Maximum of three reserves Solo player with points from the ladder can also play The Eisteddfod. You're probably going to have to play in it. The performances of your team and the opposition match head to head with the audience from their home grounds. It's a crucial week on the calendar. If your team does badly on the ground they could have to forfeit the match and lose the ladder points for that round. If you're going to be in the Eisteddfod you should check out our online Eisteddfod guide The Melbourne Cup. Why play in it and why play in it so early? In a weird and wonderful way, the Melbourne Cup is a ladder point money spinner. Any time you are in the lead, you have a chance of getting out of the lead. At a time that is designed to be a marketing window, the league is reduced by half a week, which reduces the importance of the Melbourne Cup. Before you splash out on transfers or new jerseys, take a look at our Melbourne Cup guide The Woodford Cup. The Woodford Cup is a one day knockout final held at the end of season.
